

UN Environment, Nordea and Carlsberg on sustainability opportunities

Business needs progressive leadership if it is to get where it needs to be given the current geopolitical climate which I'm sure your business is tackling this issue.

However, many leading global companies see this as an opportunity – that doing the right thing makes good business sense.

We interview senior business leaders and heads of CSR from the UN Environment, Nordea Bank and Carlsberg to understand what the biggest opportunities for sustainability are for 2018 and how they are linking the SDGs, environmental and social impact to commercial success.
